Crime continue

“Touch wood” - We can count ourselves very lucky to have such few incidents of crime, whilst our neighbours in Sector 4 has vastly more each month.

During the week of 6-13 February 2012, 12 incidents were reported for Sector 4 and 17 for the other Sectors. This is a total of 29 in one week for Brackenfell.

An Isuzu was stolen in November 2011 (most wanted vehicle by criminals), which they also tried to steel approximately 1 year prior to this incident. The one in early December prior to the school holidays, was a Fiat bakkie, which according to the police, is not easy to steel without a key. One of the burglaries in November, was again from the side of the R300 servitude and the other one near the N1. With the last incident, they got away with nothing, due to the security's quick response.

According to the police, the community are not taking care of their own property and still leaves valuables i.e. laptops, GPS's etc., unattended in their vehicles. Theft out of motor vehicles are currently one of the highest contributors towards their crime stats in the Brackenfell area.

CCTV eye turns traffic spy

The City of Cape Town has begun using 800 CCTV cameras across the metro to capture illegal driving and nail errant drivers. Capetonians are used to being caught on camera – for speeding and, in some places, skipping red lights – but now may receive fines based on video of their offences. The system proved effective recently when a motorcyclist did a “doughnut” outside the provincial legislature on Wale Street in the CBD. Unaware he was being “watched” by CCTV video cameras, the motorcyclist left a circular rubber mark on the road. The rider has been fined. Between October 2011 and January, 2 809 traffic violations worth R1 576 150 were detected using CCTV footage. Three motorists were caught speaking on the cellphones, and have been fined. Ald. JP Smith, Mayco member for Safety and Security said: “I’m extremely happy, because we now have 800 extra sets of eyes and ears for the traffic department to try to make our roads safer.” He said the cameras helped nail errant motorists in places they previously thought safe to break the law.

Project: Information

If something should happen at your property, we can only contact you if we have your contact details on record. With our own CCTV cameras with LPR (license plate recognition) capabilities, it is even more important to have up-to-date information. Please update your information on the website or get a form at the Control Room. We will soon have the facility where you can online validate and update your information.
